Kimmons Investigative Services, Inc has been an active member of the Better Business Bureau of Metro Houston for over twenty years.

In today's age of technology, a majority of communication takes place electronically. Excluding electronic devices in searches increases the chance of information falling into competitors hands. It is important to search computers and electronic devices for malicious programs that capture keystrokes (like passwords), screenshots of activity, and communications.

Kimmons offers a wide variety of services for both corporate and individual entities.

Technical Surveillance Counter-Measures (TSCM) is a defense technique designed to detect, prevent or expose the use of electronic audio or visual surveillance devices, also known as 'bugs'. These can be used by competitors, disloyal partners or employees, or other organizations (like unions). Regular sweeps of your building can be both a useful defense and an effective deterrent.
